The book "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first published in 1997, creates a organized model for the study and description of casual conversation in English. The scholars argue that despite its sometimes aimless seeming and apparently unstructured content, casual conversation is a very structured undertaking and performs a vital part in the social construction of reality. The publication goes through genuine examples of casual conversations involving participants varying in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class¹². Deriving on insights from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the book furnishes readers with the examinative skills to depict the strata of structure and critical interpretive structures to explain the 'social work' that occurs on through chat.
