The work "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, originally issued in 1997, establishes a methodical model for the analysis and portrayal of casual conversation in English. The scholars argue that despite its at times aimless look and seemingly unstructured content, casual conversation is an extremely structured undertaking and plays a vital role in the social construction of reality. The work works through real instances of casual conversations involving participants varying in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class<sup>12</sup>. Drawing on insights from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the book equips readers with the examinative skills to portray the layers of structure and critical interpretive models to explain the 'social work' that goes on through chat.
