The work "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first issued in 1997, establishes a organized model for the examination and description of casual conversation in English. The writers argue that in spite of its occasionally aimless look and apparently unstructured content, casual conversation is a highly structured undertaking and has a critical function in the social building of reality. The work works through genuine samples of casual conversations entailing participants diverging in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class<sup>12</sup>. Deriving on understandings from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the work furnishes readers with the examinative skills to describe the levels of structure and critical interpretive structures to explain the 'social work' that happens on through chat.
