Alice was perpetually fascinated by the timeworn mansion perched at the end of the street. Stories of its reclusive owner, who never ventured out of his confined abode, had always piqued her curiosity. Whispers circulated about his identity, ranging from a recluse to a genius or even a eccentric, depending on the source. Alice yearned to unravel the truth behind these tales and uncover the secrets concealed within the barred door on the second floor. Driven by an irresistible urge to delve into the mansions mysteries, Alice embarked on a daring escapade. With a heart pounding with a mix of excitement, she furtively ventured into the mansions grounds, her senses heightened as she approached the forbidden door on the second floor. Standing before the threshold, her hand trembling slightly as she reached for the doorknob, Alice braced herself for the revelations that awaited her beyond. With a deep breath, she turned the knob, the door creaking open to unveil a sight that would forever alter her perception of the world.

She had a dream. She desired to be a singer. She wished to entertain, to dance, to captivate, to entertain. She wished to be celebrated, to be adored, to be worshipped. She wished to have it all, fame, wealth, prestige. She worked hard, she practiced, she tried out, she impressed. She got a contract, a music contract, an agent, a creator. She made an album, a hit, a wonder. She became an icon, a public figure, a marvel. She had it all, admirers, fortune, accolades. She was on top of the world, she was realizing her goal. But she also had a dark side. She had a mystery, a problem, an addiction. She started to spiral out of control, to make mistakes, to cause scandals. She faced criticism, fallout, litigations. She forfeited her followers, her wealth, her awards. She tumbled down, she became a joke, a tragedy. She forfeited it all, her recognition, her fortune, her prestige. She was the climb and fall of a singer.

The work "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first issued in 1997, establishes a methodical model for the examination and portrayal of casual conversation in English. The authors assert that despite its sometimes aimless appearance and apparently unstructured material, casual conversation is a very structured task and performs a vital part in the social construction of reality. The work proceeds through genuine examples of casual conversations involving participants varying in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class<sup>12</sup>. Drawing on perspectives from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the publication provides readers with the examinative skills to portray the layers of structure and critical interpretive models to elucidate the 'social work' that happens on through chat.
