The work “Analyzing Casual Conversation” by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, originally published in 1997, develops a organized model for the examination and depiction of casual conversation in English. The authors contend that in spite of its occasionally aimless appearance and ostensibly unstructured material, casual conversation is a extremely structured task and performs a critical role in the social building of reality. The work works through authentic samples of casual conversations involving participants differing in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class¹². Pulling on insights from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the work provides readers with the examinative skills to depict the strata of structure and critical interpretive models to elucidate the ‘social work’ that happens on through chat.
