Probability and Statistics for Computer Science

2017-12-13 David Forsyth This textbook is aimed at computer science undergraduates late in sophomore or early in junior year, supplying a comprehensive background in qualitative and quantitative data analysis, probability, random variables, and statistical methods, including machine learning. With careful treatment of topics that fill the curricular needs for the course, Probability and Statistics for Computer Science features: • A treatment of random variables and expectations dealing primarily with the discrete case. • A practical treatment of simulation, showing how many interesting probabilities and expectations can be extracted, with particular emphasis on Markov chains. • A clear but crisp account of simple point inference strategies (maximum likelihood; Bayesian inference) in simple contexts. This is extended to cover some confidence intervals, samples and populations for random sampling with replacement, and the simplest hypothesis testing. • A chapter dealing with classification, explaining why it's useful; how to train SVM classifiers with stochastic gradient descent; and how to use implementations of more advanced methods such as random forests and nearest neighbors. • A chapter dealing with regression, explaining how to set up, use and understand linear regression and nearest neighbors regression in practical problems. • A chapter dealing with principal components analysis, developing intuition carefully, and including numerous practical examples. There is a brief description of multivariate scaling via principal coordinate analysis. • A chapter dealing with clustering via agglomerative methods and k-means, showing how to build vector quantized features for complex signals. Illustrated throughout, each main chapter includes many worked examples and other pedagogical elements such as boxed Procedures, Definitions, Useful Facts, and Remember This (short tips). Problems and Programming Exercises are at the end of each chapter, with a summary of what the reader should know. Instructor resources include a full set of model solutions for all problems, and an Instructor's Manual with accompanying presentation slides.

Created by Lloyd M. Dunn and Douglas M. Dunn, the assessment is designed to evaluate vocabulary comprehension for Standard American English. It is swift and easy to carry out, conserving important time so that focus can be set on implementing successful interventions.

The PPVT-4 assessment subject matter encompasses a wide range of receptive vocabulary ranks, extending from pre-kindergarten through adult age. The test items extensively include words that portray 20 topic domains (e.g., actions, vegetables, tools), parts of speech (nouns, verbs, attributes), and household and school vocabulary.

The evaluation offers two equal editions which include various vocabulary items, making sure that the person has not "learned" the test. One version can be employed ahead of intervention implementation to evaluate people's vocabulary understanding and the alternative form can be employed for re-assessment to evaluate and note improvement. The PPVT-4 also includes a distinctive Growth Scale Value (GSV) which is sensitive to minor changes in time.
