The book “Analyzing Casual Conversation” by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first issued in 1997, creates a methodical model for the analysis and portrayal of casual conversation in English. The scholars contend that in spite of its at times aimless appearance and ostensibly unstructured material, casual conversation is a very structured task and has a vital function in the social formation of reality. The work proceeds through genuine samples of casual conversations involving participants differing in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class¹². Drawing on insights from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the publication furnishes readers with the analytical skills to depict the strata of structure and critical interpretive structures to elucidate the ‘social work’ that occurs on through chat.

It was a shadowy and stormy night. The downpour was pouring down, and the breeze was roaring. In the center of the town, there was a museum, where a precious diamond was on display. The diamond was known as the Star of Africa, and it was the greatest and most beautiful diamond in the earth. It was secured by an advanced security mechanism, and a squad of equipped guards. No one could steal it, or so they believed. But an individual did. Somebody managed to circumvent the safeguard, to elude the watchmen, to smash the pane, and to take the diamond. And no one observed them, no one listened to them, no one identified who they were. They departed from no trace, no lead, no proof. They disappeared into the darkness, with the Star of Africa. And the mystery of the lost diamond commenced.
