The Nature of Nature 2020-09-08 Enric Sala In this spirited memoir, world-renowned conservationist Enric Sala weaves fascinating tales of the natural world, revealing how connections in nature promise a thriving economy as well as a healthy planet. Enric Sala wants to change the world--and in this compelling book, he shows us how. Once we appreciate how nature works, he asserts, we will understand why conservation is economically wise and essential to our survival. Here Sala, director of National Geographic's Pristine Seas project (which has succeeded in protecting more than 5 million sq km of ocean), tells the story of his scientific awakening and his transition from academia to activism--as he puts it, he was tired of writing the obituary of the ocean. His revelations are surprising, sometimes counterintuitive: More sharks signal a healthier ocean; crop diversity, not intensive monoculture farming, is the key to feeding the planet. Using fascinating examples from his expeditions and those of other scientists, Sala shows the economic wisdom of making room for nature, even as the population becomes more urbanized. In a sober epilogue, he shows how saving nature can save us all, by reversing conditions that led to the coronavirus pandemic and preventing other global catastrophes. With a foreword from Prince Charles and an introduction from E. O. Wilson, this powerful book will change the way you think about our world--and our future.

It had been the time 23, and the world stood at the brink of conflict. The USA and China, the pair of superpowers, had been entangled in a intense rivalry, contending for supplies, influence, and supremacy. They had engineered advanced arms, such as lasers, drones, and spacecrafts, which can attack any location, anytime. They had also covertly established space stations, that can deploy nuclear missiles, which could annihilate the world. They were set to use them, if ever required. But they were the sole ones. There was a third force, a secret power, which had been observing them both, waiting for them both, preparing for them both. They were the extraterrestrials, and they had come arrived to prevent them both. They had come come to save the earth, or to end it all. They had come to initiate the star wars that transformed history.

The PPVT-4 evaluation content includes a broad range of vocabulary comprehension ranks, spanning from pre-kindergarten through adulthood. The test questions broadly include words that depict 20 subject domains (e.g., actions, vegetables, tools), speech parts (nouns, verbs, attributes), and home and educational vocabulary.

One form can be employed ahead of intervention to evaluate individuals' vocabulary comprehension and the other version can be employed for re-testing to evaluate and record improvement. The PPVT-4 also contains a unique Growth Scale Value (GSV) which is reactive to small changes with time.
