2020-06-09 Raymond Boyle As the funding of journalism moves centre stage as a driver in shaping the new trajectories of journalism in the digital age, this book focuses on how those working in sports journalism have had to adapt and re-invent themselves. the digital environment. These include aspects of disruption to: established norms of journalistic practice; institutional allegiance; the authority and primary definer role of journalism; and the career structure and development for journalists writing about sport. The book draws on empirically-led research that mixes qualitative and quantitative approaches and seeks to better understand and position what is going on across contemporary sports journalism. In so doing, this collection identifies change, but also areas of continuity as well as new opportunities for journalists. This book was originally published as a special issue of Digital Journalism.

work addressing the embodied aspects which form a central part of our understanding and experience of sport and movement cultures. Researching Embodied Sport explores the political, social and cultural significance of embodied approaches to the study of sport, physical activities and dance. It explains how embodied approaches fit with existing theory in studies of sport and movement cultures and makes a compelling case for incorporating an embodied approach into the study of sporting practices and experience. The book adopts a multi-disciplinary lens, moving beyond the traditional dualism of body and mind, and incorporating the physical with the social and the psychological. It applies key theories that have shaped our thinking about the body and sport, and examines both the personal, subjective experience of sporting activities and those involving engagement and contact with society. This book goes beyond conventional approaches to analysing the practices of women sport fans. By using a critical feminist perspective to investigate cultural conditions and social contexts (including globalisation, digital networked technologies, consumerism, neoliberalism and postfeminism), it brings into view a diversity of women's voices and experiences as sport fans. It sheds new light on the power dynamics of gender, ethnicity and sexuality influencing women's participation in sport spectatorship and interrogates the ways female sport fandom is made visible through transnational media networks. (PPVT-4) is a well-respected vocabulary evaluation that has been in practice for close to half a century. Formulated by Lloyd M. Dunn and Douglas M. Dunn, the test is made to evaluate vocabulary comprehension for Standard American English. It is quick and easy to conduct, preserving valuable time so that focus can be set on executing successful strategies.

The PPVT-4 evaluation material encompasses a wide scope of receptive vocabulary levels, ranging from preschool through adult age. The assessment questions broadly include words that portray 20 topic areas (e.g., actions, vegetables, tools), parts of speech (nouns, verbs, attributes), and home and school vocabulary.

The assessment gives two equivalent editions which hold various vocabulary words, making sure that the individual has not “learned” the assessment. One edition can be used ahead of intervention to assess individuals’ vocabulary understanding and the other version can be used for re-testing to measure and record improvement. The PPVT-4 also contains a unique Growth Scale Value (GSV) which is responsive to slight changes in time.
