The work "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, originally issued in 1997, establishes a methodical model for the examination and portrayal of casual conversation in English. The authors contend that in spite of its occasionally aimless look and ostensibly unstructured material, casual conversation is a extremely structured task and performs a critical part in the social construction of reality. The publication goes through authentic examples of casual conversations entailing participants varying in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class12. Drawing on perspectives from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the work furnishes readers with the analytic skills to depict the strata of structure and critical interpretive structures to explain the ‘social work’ that goes on through chat.
