The Journey of a Thousand Miles

He was tired of his life. He was bored, depressed, and discontented. He had a job he detested, a supervisor he abhorred, and a girlfriend he didn't cherish. He had no zeal, no purpose, no meaning. He felt like he was wasting his time, his potential, his being. He desired to change, he wished to escape, he desired to exist. He chose to quit his work, to split up with his significant other, to dispose of his stuff, and to purchase a one-way ticket to the far end of the globe. He didn't know where he was heading, he didn't understand what he was performing, he didn't know what he was looking for. He only realized that he had to leave, that he had to explore, that he had to discover. He embarked on a trip of a thousand kilometers, a voyage of thrill, of challenge, of knowledge, of progress, of alteration.

First introduction to instrumentation by a k ghosh The Mystery of the Missing Diamond

It was a shadowy and stormy night. The drizzle was pouring down, and the breeze was whistling. In the center of the town, there was a museum, where an invaluable diamond was on display. The diamond was named the African Star, and it was the greatest and most beautiful diamond in the world. It was protected by a sophisticated security setup, and a team of armed guards. No one could steal it, or so they believed. But somebody did. An individual managed to bypass the protection, to elude the guards, to break the glass, and to take the diamond. And no one noticed them, no one heard them, no one knew who they were. They departed from no sign, no lead, no proof. They faded into the darkness, with the African Star. And the riddle of the lost diamond started.

The publication "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first published in 1997, establishes a organized model for the study and depiction of casual conversation in English. The authors argue that notwithstanding its at times aimless look and apparently unstructured content, casual conversation is a highly structured activity and has a critical function in the social building of reality. The book works through authentic instances of casual conversations entailing participants diverging in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class¹². Pulling on perspectives from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the publication furnishes readers with the analytical skills to describe the strata of structure and critical interpretive structures to elucidate the 'social work' that goes on through chat.
