The authors argue that notwithstanding its occasionally aimless look and ostensibly unstructured content, casual conversation is a highly structured task and plays a critical function in the social construction of reality. The work proceeds through genuine instances of casual conversations including participants varying in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class². Drawing on understandings from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the work provides readers with the examinative skills to portray the levels of structure and critical interpretive models to clarify the ‘social work’ that goes on through chat.
