Dalla natura alla tavola. Buoni da mangiare: erbe e frutti selvatici della Brianza e del Triangolo Lariano

2018-05-01 Stefania Scaccabarozzi Il lavoro riguarda la Brianza e il Triangolo Lariano per un aspetto molto particolare ma che negli ultimi tempi interessa un numero crescente di persone, ossia la raccolta e l'uso in cucina di erbe e frutti selvatici, ormai un intreccio culinario e gastronomico fra sguardo sul passato, interesse per gli usi degli altri e innovativa curiosità. Si rivolge agli abitanti del territorio non meno però che a coloro che vivono nell'area metropolitana milanese e qui alimentano un quotidiano intenso turismo di prossimità, a quelle persone che amano sempre di più frequentare le campagne e i boschi per camminare e stare a contatto con la natura. Lo fa suggerendo che possono anche farlo per raccogliere erbe e frutti spontanei buoni da mangiare e provare così sapori nuovi, peraltro gratis, godendo inoltre di altri benefici effetti collaterali. La guida, con numerose schede delle specie più interessanti e una ricca proposta di ricette, può tornare utile a molti e non solo agli appassionati del naturale o della cucina creativa, ossia anche a coloro che nel territorio risiedono e sono variamente interessati ad attività divulgative, di educazione ambientale o a un particolare sviluppo turistico.

The Life and Legacy of Nelson Mandela
Nelson Mandela was one of the most influential and inspiring leaders of the 20th century. He was born on July 18, 1918, in Mvezo, a small village in South Africa. He belonged to the Thembu royal family, and was given the name Rolihlahla, which means “troublemaker” in Xhosa. He grew up in a time of racial oppression and discrimination, and witnessed the injustices and violence inflicted by the white minority government on the black majority. He decided to dedicate his life to the struggle for freedom and equality, and joined the African National Congress (ANC), a political party that fought against apartheid, the system of racial segregation and domination in South Africa. He became a lawyer, an activist, and a leader, and was arrested and imprisoned several times for his resistance and defiance. He spent 27 years in prison, most of them on Robben Island, a notorious prison island where he endured harsh conditions and isolation. He never gave up his hope and vision, and continued to inspire and mobilize his people and the world. He was released from prison in 1990, and became the first democratically elected president of South Africa in 1994. He led the country through a peaceful transition and reconciliation, and became a global icon of human rights, democracy, and peace. He received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1993, and many other honors and awards. He died on December 5, 2013, at the age of 95, leaving behind a legacy of courage, wisdom, and compassion. He is widely regarded as the father of the nation, and one of the greatest heroes of history.
