Creating a synthesis paper requires pulling together data from multiple sources to present a comprehensive argument on a subject. Here are the stages to write a perfect structure for a synthesis paper:

1. Select a Appropriate Subject: Select a topic that aligns with your hobbies and the assignment needs.
2. Carry out Thorough Research: Explore different sources, including articles, books, and academic journals, to collect data.
3. Outline Your Format: Begin with an intro that catches the readers attention and presents your thesis – what your essay will debate. After that, outline what each of your body paragraphs will discuss. Be sure to include information from various sources.
4. Compose Sections with Subject Lines: Dedicate each paragraph to a specific sub-topic or source. Begin with a clear topic sentence directly related to your thesis. Introduce the source youre combining and plan its key points. Back up your arguments with evidence from the source, employing quotes, paraphrases, or summaries.
5. Review, Correct, and Check: Review your work for any errors or inconsistencies.

The book "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first published in 1997, creates a methodical model for the study and depiction of casual conversation in English. The writers argue that despite its sometimes aimless seeming and seemingly unstructured material, casual conversation is a highly structured undertaking and plays a crucial function in the social construction of reality. The book goes through real samples of casual conversations involving participants diverging in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class¹². Deriving on perspectives from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the book provides readers with the examinative skills to describe the levels of structure and critical interpretive models to clarify the 'social work' that happens on through chat.
