The book “Analyzing Casual Conversation” by Suzanne Egins and Diana Slade, originally issued in 1997, develops a systematic model for the analysis and portrayal of casual conversation in English. The writers argue that in spite of its sometimes aimless seeming and seemingly unstructured content, casual conversation is a extremely structured activity and has a vital part in the social construction of reality. The work goes through genuine examples of casual conversations entailing participants diverging in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class12. Drawing on understandings from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the book furnishes readers with the analytical skills to portray the layers of structure and critical interpretive structures to explain the ‘social work’ that goes on through chat.

It had been the year 2023, and the world stood at the verge of battle. The U.S. and China, the two world powers, had been locked in a intense competition, contending for assets, power, and supremacy. They had engineered advanced armaments, including lasers, drones, and orbiters, which can strike any place, any time. They had clandestinely built space stations, that can launch nuclear missiles, that can annihilate the planet. They were set to employ these weapons, if needed. But they were not the only ones. There was a 3rd entity, a concealed power, which had watching them, waiting for them, getting ready for them both. They were aliens, and they had come to stop them both. They had come to save the earth, or to terminate it. They had come arrived to start the star wars which changed past.
