Engineering Economics and Cost Estimation is a vital aspect of any engineering project. It involves current and upcoming economic factors, making it essential to obtain dependable estimates of future costs, benefits, and other economic parameters. Engineers often deal with projects whose scale, complexity, and uncertainty call for sophisticated approaches to planning and budgeting [1]. Several methods are used for cost estimation, including rough estimates, semi-detailed estimates, or detailed estimates, depending on the needs for the estimates [2]. Key concepts in this field include overhead costs, cost driver identification, cost allocation methods, capital budgeting, flexible budgeting, zero-based budgeting, budgets, and estimates. Various models are available for developing cost (or benefit) estimates, such as the per-unit model, the segmenting model, cost indexes, the power-sizing model, and learning curve cost estimating. The quality of a cost estimate generally increases as the resources allocated to developing the estimate increase.

The publication "Analyzing Casual Conversation" by Suzanne Eggins and Diana Slade, first issued in 1997, establishes a organized model for the study and depiction of casual conversation in English. The scholars assert that notwithstanding its occasionally aimless appearance and ostensibly unstructured substance, casual conversation is a very structured task and has a crucial role in the social formation of reality. The work works through real samples of casual conversations involving participants differing in age, gender, ethnicity, and socio-economic class<sup>12</sup>. Drawing on understandings from sociology, linguistics, and critical semiotics, the work equips readers with the analytical skills to describe the levels of structure and critical interpretive models to clarify the 'social work' that occurs on through chat.

The Mystery of the Missing Diamond

It was a shadowy and stormy night. The drizzle was pouring down, and the wind was howling. In the middle of the town, there was a gallery, where a precious diamond was on exhibit. The diamond was named the Star of Africa, and it was the greatest and most beautiful diamond in the globe. It was secured by a high-tech security system, and a group of weaponized guards. No one could rob it, or so they believed. But someone did. Somebody managed to get around the protection, to evade the guards, to break the glass, and to grab the diamond. And no one noticed them, no one listened to them, no one recognized who they were. They departed from no sign, no hint, no evidence. They faded into the nightfall, with the Star of Africa. And the enigma of the missing diamond started.
