The Saddest Music Ever Written: The Story of Samuel Barber's Adagio for Strings Thomas Larson

2010-09-15 An exploration of the cultural impact of Samuel Barber's Adagio for Strings, the Pieta' of music, and its enigmatic composer. "Whenever the American dream suffers a catastrophic setback, Barber's Adagio plays on the radio."—Alex Ross, author of The Rest is Noise In the first book ever to explore Samuel Barber's Adagio for Strings, music and literary critic Thomas Larson tells the story of the prodigal composer and his seminal masterpiece: from its composition in 1936, when Barber was just twenty-six, to its orchestral premiere two years later, led by the great Arturo Toscanini, and its fascinating history as America's secular hymn for grieving our dead. Older Americans know Adagio from the funerals and memorials for Presidents Roosevelt and Kennedy, Albert Einstein, and Grace Kelly. Younger Americans recall the work as the antiwar theme of the movie Platoon. Still others treasure the piece in its choral version under the name Agnus Dei. More recently, mourners heard Adagio played as a memorial to the victims of the 9/11 attacks. Barber's Adagio is truly the saddest music ever written, enrapturing listeners with its lyric beauty as few laments have. The Adagio's sonorous intensity also speaks of the turbulent inner life of its composer, Samuel Barber (1910-1981), a melancholic who, in later years, descended into alcoholism and severe depression. Part biography, part cultural history, part memoir, The Saddest Music ever Written captures the deep emotion Barber's great elegy has stirred throughout the world during its seventy-five-year history, becoming an icon of our national soul.

ALS Samuel Barber 1955 Barber writes to wish Hans a "bon voyage" and discusses his work and concert plans.

Excerpt: Excursions, Op. 20, is the first published solo piano piece by Samuel Barber. Barber himself explains: "These are 'Excursions' in small classical forms into regional American idioms. Their rhythmic characteristics, as well as their source in folk material and their scoring, reminiscent of local instruments are easily recognized." This is typical of neo-Romantic composers such as Barber. As Susan Carter explains in her Dissertation, The Piano Music of Samuel Barber, that "neo-Romantic composers returned to a style characterized by broad lyricism and dramatic expression." She also states that the traditional structures of form from the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries were conserved while drawing upon a "contemporary technical vocabulary." From a Boogie-woogie style of a five-part Rondo to a theme and variations of a well known cowboy ballad, and even to a barn yard dance with a fiddler, Barber uses each style effectively and accurately, according to the neo-Romantic ideas. Before composing his Piano Sonata, Samuel Barber was asked by Jeanna Behrend, a personal friend of his and an accomplished pianist, to write a longer, more involved piece for piano that "would be appropriate to perform on one of her programs of American music." Barber obliged, and in June...

Concerto for violin and orchestra, : violi Samuel Barber 1949

The Concerto for Violin and Orchestra by Samuel Barber Verna Lucile Baer 1945 Among the present generation of American composers, the name of Samuel Barber is pre-eminent. In an age in which composition has been strongly experimental, Barber has entered the front-rank of composers without resorting to current mannerisms. It is his fine feeling for beauty and design rather than his harmonic of technical innovations which have made his writings distinctive. Therefore in discussing the Barber Concerto for Violin and Orchestra particular emphasis will be placed upon the form and the relationship of the solo instrument to the orchestra. No detailed study of the harmonic structure will be given. The thesis will be written from the standpoint of the performer with the main attention focused upon the rhythmic devises and the violinistic style of the composer. A brief biographical sketch and a review of the early performances of the Concerto will complete the contents of the thesis.
